

FOR THESE KIDS,
A BACKPACK HOLDS MORE THAN SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

The Backpack Project was created so that hungry and frightened children in the Oure Cassoni refugee camp in Chad could attend schools run by our partner, the International Rescue Committee. Filled with shoes, books, school supplies, soap and toothpaste, the backpack allows each child to make the most of school under the most difficult of circumstances. Each backpack also contains something intangible, but essential to their well-being: hope.
